

WHAT IS AN ARCHAEOLOGICAL PARK?

“An archaeological park is a researched, protected and presented archaeological site or its part that includes informative and didactic components of presentation and interpretation in order to raise awareness of the importance of archaeological heritage.”

MANDATORY ELEMENTS:

ARCHAEOLOGICAL SITE

A protected, researched and publically accessible archaeological site or its part forms the basis for an archaeological park.

DISPLAY OF ARCHAEOLOGICAL REMAINS

Archaeological remains within the park have to be displayed in situ or presented by alternative means.

PRESENTATION AND INTERPRETATION

Presentation and interpretation of archaeological heritage should be an integral part of the park (interpretation panels, guided tours, visitor programs or workshops, ...).

LANDSCAPE DESIGN

Additionally, the area should be carefully landscaped, enabling optimal usage of the site as well as recreation and relaxation.
